

Innovative Ways to Reduce Your IT Spend in Difficult Economic Times

Now more than ever IT is expected to drive innovation, revenue and results. But effectively leveraging technology is seldom easy, especially in these difficult economic times. How do you maximize your investment, and help find operational savings while continuing to grow your business? Organizations can start by reducing their overall risk exposure and learning how optimizing your current environment can drastically reduce your overall IT spend.

SunGard Availability Services has teamed up with Statera to offer a breadth of Managed Application Services, Managed IT Services, and Managed Cloud Services to help customers through these challenging times. Learn how our Managed Solutions experts can help your organization by providing and delivering application and infrastructure support solutions built to achieve your business goals.

Join SunGard and Stratera for breakfast on Tuesday, June 23, 2009 at the Ritz Carlton, Denver as they discuss:

- Steps you can take today that will help you monetize the overall risk exposure within your organization.
- How you can optimize your current environment to drastically reduce your overall IT spend in 2009.
- How SunGard can assist your organization by reviewing operating and capital expenditures in storage and data center infrastructure and services.
- Expanding the breadth of Managed Services - Statera and SunGard.
- How To Drive Costs out of the Business while continuing to move mission-critical objectives forward and
- How Statera can help customers reap the benefits of Cloud Services while continuing to leverage their existing IT infrastructure investments.
